ARTHUR E. SANDERSON

Arthur E. Sanderson is director of the Equal Employment Opportunity Office at NASA's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.

A native of Kansas, Sanderson was born in Chase on March 30, 1920. He graduated from Chase High School in 1938 and attended Sterling College before entering Washington University in St. Louis to earn a bachelor of science degree in social science. In 1968, he received a master of arts degree in public administration from the University of Oklahoma. In 1971 and 1972, he completed postgraduate studies in the fields of science and technology, international relations and public administration also at the University of Oklahoma.

Sanderson, a World War II veteran, began his civil service career in 1945. In 1952 he became director of personnel for the St. Louis Ordnance District. From 1956 to 1960, he was deputy director and later director of personnel for the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. When the Marshall Space Flight Center was established in 1960, Sanderson transferred as director of personnel to the new organization. He was the Center's chief negotiator for management for three labor contracts with
